VERY FRENCH.—The Paris newspapers give details of a most extraordinary and complicated drama which is said to have taken place in Paris. Jean H., who had fallen into needy circumstances after having occupied a good position in trade, engaged himself in June last as a coachman to Monsieur L., an ex-director of an insurance company, living in the Avenue Trudaine. In a few weeks Jean H. initiated himself into the graces of the family to such an extent that eventually his master determined to dismiss him, but the wily coachman suddenly eloped with the eldest daughter of the house. Monsieur L. searched far and wide, but could learn no tidings whatever of his lost child, until the day before yesterday, when he received a letter from Jean H., in which, after begging forgiveness for carrying off the young lady, he asked her father's consent to the marriage as the only means of repairing the dishonor of the family. Monsieur L. immediately rushed off to the address indicated in the letter, to rescue his daughter, but before he reached it, owing to the heat and excitement, he was struck with a fit of apoplexy and died in a chemist's shop. The sudden death of the father struck the young lady with remorse, and having nursed her seducer, she returned home, when she succeeded in obtaining her mother's pardon. Yesterday, as she did not come to breakfast, the servant went up stairs and found her dead on the bed. She had poisoned herself. On the night of the body the mother went raving mad, and is now said to be on the point of death.

FALSE EYES.—A French paper gives a detailed account of the manufacture of false eyes in Paris, from which the curious fact appears that the average sale per week for eyes intended for the human head amounts to 400. One of the leading dealers in this article carries on the business in a saloon of great magnificence; his servant has but one eye, and the effect of any of the eyes wanted by customers is conveniently tried in this servant's head, so that the customer can judge very readily as to the appearance it will produce in his own head. The charge is about $10 per eye. For the poor there are second-hand visual organs, which have been worn for a time and exchanged for new ones; they are sold at reduced prices, and large quantities are sent off to India and the Sandwich Islands.

SCARCITY OF FISH.—The English are threatened with serious trouble about their fish supply. This mainly of the poorer classes seems to be failing, and less fish, in spite of all the increased facilities for securing and transporting them, were delivered in London last year than in the year 1848. The present form of complaint is against the middle men, who throw fish away and sell it for manure when spoiled rather than supply the demand at a low rate. But there are reasons for thinking that the waters about the Islands are becoming depopulated, and already efforts have been made towards transplanting some of our rarities to British waters.

A little girl who was visiting the family of a neighbor, heard them speak of her father as a widower, and on her return home, said, "Pa, are you a widower?" "Yes, my child. Don't you know that your mother is dead?" "Why, yes, I know that mother is dead; but then you always told me that you was a New Yorker."

September was the last month that internal revenue stamps had to be affixed to legal documents, as the new law, abolishing all stamp duties imposed by schedule B, except the tax of two cents upon bank checks, drafts or orders, took effect on the 1st of October.

A New York physician said, the other evening, that he had a penitent patient, to whom he showed every attention, because ultimately he hoped to become the owner of a remarkable tumor which was slowly wearing the man's life away.

The stationer of an Eastern paper avers that the flies are so good-natured this season, that a well-organized one will allow himself to be brushed off one's nose eighty-seven times and not show any temper.

That was a cool Scottish "aside" of an old dealer, who when exhorting his son to honesty in his dealings, on the ground of its being the "best policy," quietly added, "I has tried bath."

The people of Geneva, Adams county, Indiana, use the hollow trunk of a sycamore tree as a calaboose for confining disturbers of the peace.

Why are menials like fresh mackerel? Because they run in schools and have to be caught before they can be had.

Joaquin Miller has given Grace Greenwood a pair of ear-rings made of rattlesnake's rattles, ornamented with gold.

Grace Greenwood calls riding astraddle the way women used to ride in the high erotic days.

Good company and good conversation are the signs of virtue.
